

The meaning of GREEN

The green janitorial service is a process that allows the reduction in the overall impacts on human health and the environment, and one that takes a holistic view of a facility, its mission, and the activities that take place within that facility. To be considered a "Green" product, the consideration must be made not only to the materials and procedures used to produce the product, but also to the attention to make the product emit less toxins and chemicals or produce less overall waste than its standard counterparts.

This combination of environmental and social responsibility is what separates S&S's Green Jan-San line from other environmentally friendly lines. Our attention to the details of operations and outputs of all our Vendors allows us to provide you with the best eco-friendly alternatives to standard products.
